

Meg Redwin

Executive Director,
General Counsel – Global
Multiplex

Meg Redwin is General Counsel, Executive Director – Global for Multiplex. She has overall responsibility for the legal management and assessment of risk for a wide range of projects. She provides advice to the business for global corporate, risk and insurance matters.

Project Responsibilities

As Executive Director, General Counsel for Multiplex, Meg is responsible for managing the overall legal and potential risks that may arise from projects undertaken by the company. She provides strategic advice during the procurement stage, and ongoing risk management advice throughout all stages of the construction process.

Meg is a member of the Australian Executive Group and the Global Executive Management Team and is involved at a board level in setting the strategy of the Multiplex business and shaping the future for the business.

Career Overview

Meg has been involved in some of the company's most highly profiled contracts, including Western Sydney Airport, Westmead Hospital, Queens Wharf in Brisbane and Quay Quarter Tower (QQT).

In addition to her role on the Australian Executive Team and the Global Management Team, Meg runs the Credit and Risk Committee for the Australian business. She is also a Board member and Vice President of the Australian Constructors Association (ACA), working with peers in the industry on projects of concern and interest to construction entities.